Worldwide R&D efforts towards the development of the next generation mobile network, 5G, are in full swing. Also the universities in the Netherlands are fully engaged in 5G research, supporting the Dutch and European industry to maintain a leading position in the field. This symposium provides an overview of the current status on the wireless research activities at the Dutch universities with a focus on the NXP-STW-Partnership Programme, the European Marie Skłodowska-Curie ITN project SILIKA and the 5G PPP project BLUESPACE.
